

BATIK WORKSHOP
With Indonesia's
Finest
Batik Artists

See contact information below.

'This collaborative art team is renowned for their intricate, nuanced and time-intensive contemporary fine art textiles. They have exhibited at many prestigious exhibitions around the world and worked with world distinguished curators. Since 1994 they have explored and worked in collaboration with Australian Aboriginals, American First Nation, African artists from Mali and Nigeria and various Asian, American, European and Australian artists, They have received critical acclaim for their successful use of traditional textile techniques in exploring their own realm of creativity while pursuing an understanding of the value, role and meaning of tradition in the development of our world culture.' Christine Cocca, Director Yogyakarta Open Studios, Yogyakarta Indonesia.

Their studio produces fine art batik Brahma Tirta Sari (BTS), which means 'creativity is the source of all knowledge', and was founded on the belief that there are many relevant traditions rooted in cultures throughout the world which are important resources in the creation of contemporary art.

www.brahmatirtasari.org/www.babaransegaragunung.org

Ismoyo and Nia will be in the U.S. in March and have agreed to come to Florida to offer their batik workshop for us. Ellen Nepustil has kindly offered to let us use her wet studio in Bradenton where we will have room for 15 participants

This is an opportunity not to be missed.

BATIK WORKSHOP

Ismoyo and Nia will be offering a two-day workshop in Bradenton, Florida March 30-31 2019

The workshop will cover:

- A brief overview of batik history and creative process
-
- Introduction to equipment & materials
- Fundamentals of batik
- Hand and cap batik
- Systems of dyes naphthol, indigo sol and natural dyes
- Wax Removal
-

For information and registration forms contact:

Trish Hodge at trishmhodge@gmail.com or 860-436-0250